DEATH CONTINUES TO RIDE SLIPPERY COUNTY HIGHWAYS

KERENS FARMER DEAD RESULT CRASH; ANOTHER DIES OF INJURIES

Death continues to ride the slippery highways in Navarro county and two victims were added Wednesday night and early Thursday—the seventh and eighth automobile accident fatalities of the year in Navarro county.

W. C. Perryman, Kerens farmer, aged 37, was almost instantly killed Wednesday night at 10 o'clock when his automobile plunged into a concrete bridge railing a few miles east of Corsicana. He suffered a fractured skull and other injuries. He was rushed to the Navarro Clinic in a Sutherland-McCammon ambulance and the body later was taken to Kerens by the Stockton Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements were being made Thursday. The car was demolished. Surviving are his wife and three children. Perryman was alone in his car at the time of the accident.

L. L. Morgan, aged 17 years, of Houston, died in the P. and S. hospital Thursday morning at 7 o'clock, from injuries sustained Tuesday night three miles south of Corsicana on Highway 75 when two automobiles figured in a collision. He received a fractured leg and other injuries in the same accident in which his companion, Henry John Fox, Jr., 22, received fatal injuries. H. R. Strickland, 37, of Houston, occupant of the other car, was taken to Houston Wednesday afternoon. He received treatment at the Navarro Clinic for severe cuts about the head, elbow and knee. Both cars were badly damaged.

The body of Fox was forwarded to Houston Wednesday night by the Corley Funeral Home for interment sometime Friday.

OPINION M'CRAW RELEASES FUNDS FOR BRAZOS WORK

ACTION FOLLOWS STATEMENT OF DROUGHT THAT FUNDS ALLOTTED

AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—(AP)—An opinion by Attorney General William McCraw today released diverted state tax funds to match Works Progress Administration money to start construction on one or more units of the $30,500,000 Brazos river dam project.

McCraw's apinion, required to release formally $309,000 of general fund taxes diverted annually for 20 years in ten counties of the Brazos river watershed, was issued after H. P. Drought, Texas Works Progress administrator, said WPA funds were "definitely allotted" to complete "one or more units."

The Brazos river conservation and reclamation district act authorized issuance of up to $10,000,000 bonds to purchase land and power machinery. Drought said work would start "as soon as the sponsor (the district) has furnished the necessary lands and the engineering plans needed for beginning the work, and as soon as the sponsor is ready for the work to start."

It was planed to construct first the $3,000,000 Possum Kingdom dam and reservoir in Palo Pinto and Young counties.

JOCKEY AND SLAIN WOMAN

Mrs. Evelyn Sliwinski (left) pretty young wife of a tailor, was found dead on a highway near Louisville. Willie Saunders (right) famous jockey, who rode Omaha, 1935 Kentucky Derby winner, was charged with murder in the case and was indicted for accessory to murder and his friend, Walter Schaeffer, race track exercise boy, was indicted for murder. A woman companion of the trio stated Mrs. Sliwinski was first beaten, thrown out and an automobile run over the body.

CALIFORNIA BRUSH FIRE DRIVES TOWARD MALIBU BEACH AREA

DAMAGE BY FOREST FIRE ALREADY ESTIMATED AT MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24.—(AP)—A million dollar brush fire, fanned by a treacherous wind, threatened early today to sweep across Malibu Beach, exclusive motion picture colony.

"It looks like we are gone," said Arch Jones of the land company which controls the fashionable resort section, as the wind shifted the flames for the second time in 24 hours and drove them steadily toward the now deserted colony.

With flames barely a half a mile away, Jones said "it looks like we're bound to lose a few homes at the northern end and we'll have a fight to keep it all from burning."

The colony lies nearly a mile along the beach front.

MURDER CHARGES AGAINST JOCKEY AND PAL DENIED

WOMAN COMPANION ON WILD PARTY ALLEGEDLY KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Indictments charging Jockey Willie (Smoky) Saunders with being an accessory to murder and Walter Schaeffer, race track exercise boy, with the murder of Mrs. Evelyn Sliwinski were voted by the county grand jury here today.

The joint indictment was returned by the jury several hours after it began investigating the auto ride death of the young Louisville married woman whose battered body was found on the Ohio River road here about 3 a. m. last Sunday.

The jury heard the testimony of Mrs. Agatha Mackison, the other party girl on the fatal ride which climaxed a night of drinking and merry making at Louisville's hot spots.

Saunders, 20, who rose to fame this year by riding winners in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, at Pimpico, Md., was at liberty under $5,000 bond. His pal, Schaeffer, 25, is a native of Chicago Heights and has been a rider since he was 15. Both stoutly denied any responsibility for the woman's death.

The indictment which named

ADDITIONAL MENTAL EXPERTS TESTIFIED PIERSON NOT SANE

YOUTHFUL SLAYER OF PARENTS ALLEGEDLY LIVING IN WORLD OF DELUSION

AUSTIN, Oct 24.—(AP)—Howard Pierson's elder brother, William, testified today at the former's sanity hearing he believed the 21-year-old slayer of his parents was insane.

Long before Howard fatally shot his father and mother last April 24, William Pierson said, the brothers had discussed the youth's "trouble" and Howard had consulted a psychologist.

As a sister previously had testified, William Pierson said the youth had a delusion he was not the son of Justice William Pierson of the Texas Supreme Court and Mrs. Pierson, whom he confessed killing in a country lane.

"That thought was brought out very forcibly in conversations I had with him at various times,"

Two Van Zandt County Farmers Die at Crossing

WILLS POINT, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Two farmers were killed today when an eastbound Texas and Pacific passenger train hit their automobile at a grade crossing one and one-half miles east of Wills Point.

The victims were Lewis Ramsey, 25, and Loy Smith, 22. Both lived near Wills Point. The bodies were brought to Wills Point.

The automobile was demolished. It had just been driven off the Cedar Grove road and was crossing the rail line to the main highway when the accident occurred.

OLD AGE PENSION MEASURE FINALLY PASSED BY HOUSE

DIFFERS IN MANY RESPECTS FROM SENATE BILL PASSED RECENTLY

AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The house today passed finally, 135 to 5, a bill to establish a system of old age pensions differing in many respects from one approved earlier by the senate.

Three and one-half days of desultory debate preceded the action. The final draft of the pension bill probably will be written in conference committee.

The house bill was regarded as more liberal than the senate proposal. Under the house bill persons with incomes of $720 yer year or less and a net property valuation of $4,000 would receive allowances. The senate would restrict payments to persons with incomes of less than $400 and negotiable assets of $500.

An attempt was made by the house to set up a permaent fund to relieve taxpayers of heavy pension payments in the future. Fifteen per cent of all taxes levied for pensions would go to a permanent fund for investment, income from which would be used to pay pension costs as far as possible.

The house defeated an amendment directing the pension com-

BUSINESS DISTRICT FIRE CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE LAST NIGHT

TWO FIREMEN OVERCOME BY SMOKE IN FIGHTING STUBBORN BLAZE

A stubborn fire that required battling on the part of the Corsicana Fire department for more than four hours Wednesday night resulted in damage estimated by fire department officials at approximately $10,000 to the Electric studio, J. Kaplan store and the two buildings housing them.

The fire was discovered about 7.30 Wednesday evening and firemen immediately began their efforts to extinguish the blaze between the ceiling of the second floor and roof of the Burke building, but were not finally successful until about midnight.

The major portion of the damage resulted from water and smoke according to Fire Chief Elmer Keith after he had re-examined the structure Thursday morning.

Two firemen, Hose Captain Howard Bivins and Driver Luke Wilson, were overcome by the dense smoke while fighting the fire and forced to return to the station, but apparently had recovered completely Thursday. They were first thought to have been victims of fumes from burning photographic films but were found later to have been overcome by carbon monoxide fumes that swirled through the holes cut in

ACTUAL WORK ON LAKE HALBERT DAM TO START TUESDAY

LOCAL OFFICIALS OPPOSED TRANSFER OUTSIDE MAN AS SUPERVISOR

Actual work on the Lake Halbert dam improvement project is expected to start next Tuesday unless appointment of the WPA supervisor and timekeeper on the activity delays the operation city officials reported Thursday.

At noon Thursday, Ray Morgan, director of the Corsicana office of the National Re-employment Service, reported that he had not received a requisition from the district WPA offices at Palestine for the 151 men called for in the first month of work on the project. The work authorization was received in Corsicana and Palestine Tuesday morning.

Indications that some delay might be encountered in starting the project after it had progressed thus far were seen as a result of a conference held Wednesday afternoon between J. B. Jones, chief engineer and assistant administrator for the WPA district, and Mr. Morgan.

The Palestine official asked for an explanation of the procedure

RANGERS ORDERED ON GUARD IN DOCK STRIKE AT BEAUMONT

POSSIBLE MOVES FOR SETTLEMENT OF GULF PORTS TROUBLES SEEN

HOUSTON, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Texas Rangers were under orders at Beaumont today to "guard life and property" in the longshoremen's strike as moves were made for a possible settlement of the labor dispute.

L. G. Phares, acting director of the state department of safety, ordered six rangers, headed by Capt. J. W. McCormick, to Beaumont after he said he received by telegraph an "official urgent request" from Mayor P. D. Renfro and Chief of Police L. B. Maddox.

WET WEATHER THAT REACHES TO COAST SPREAD OVER TEXAS

NEAR FREEZING IN PANHANDLE; RAIN IN GREATER PART OF STATE

By The Associated Press.

A "wet norther" which penetrated south to the Gulf Coast brought cool, sloppy weather to most of Texas today.

Practically every section of the state was drenched by rains. In East Texas hard downpours measured several inches. To the west, the precipitation trailed off into drizzling showers.

Near-freezing temperatures were recorded in the Panhandle this morning, Amarillo and points north getting as low as 33 degrees.

The forecast was for more rain tonight and tomorrow for most of the state, with a gradual rise in temperatures to follow.

The cold wave reached Laredo yesterday bringing a light rain and a mercury drop of 38 degrees. The temperature today was 47 degrees.

In the lower Rio Grande Valley, the temperature fell to 52 and the rich agricultural section had misting rain.

Approximately one inch of rain fell at Wichita Falls in the last 48 hours. The minimum mercury reading there last night was 42 degrees.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—While Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer lay delirious and "very low" in a Newark hospital, victim of gunmen's fire that killed two of his henchmen, police spread a frenzied search today for a hoodlum they described as another Vincent Coll, a mad ruthless killer.

Police guards patrolled the hospital corridors to prevent any attempt of the former beer baron's enemies to "finish" him.

Both Schultz and his chauffeur Bernard Rosenkrantz, suffering from abdominal wounds, were described in a hospital bulletin as "going very fast" shortly before noon.

The man for whom the police hunt started was Albert Stern, 21, Alias Stein, also wanted for questioning about the hatchet killing yesterday of "Pretty Louie" Amberg, Brooklyn gangster, and the

HEAVY BATTLE IS REPORTED RAGING ON SOUTHERN FRONT

MUSSOLINI WANTS ANSWER ON PEACE TERMS FROM PARIS AND LONDON

By R. H. HIPPELHEUSER
Associated Press Staff Writer.

With his fascist legions ready to strike at the interior of Ethiopia from the south, Mussolini pressed Paris and London today for action on his peace terms.

In Addis Ababa, reports from the southern front said a heavy battle raged on the Webbe Shibeli River in the Ogaden Province between the Italians under General Rudolfo Graziani and 20,000 tribal warriors of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Dedjazmatch Nazibu, governor of Hara Province, to the north of Ogaden and one of the commanders on the southern front, told the Associated Press the heavy belated rains still made large scale military operations in the south impossible.

Nasibu, after an extensive tour of the southern sector, said the rains would continue for two weeks more.

"The Italian maneuvers thus far," Nasibu said, "have been confined to sporadic air raids and attacks on frontier posts along the Webbe Shibeli river.

"All reports about big battles are pure fiction."

Nasibu's Province, the "garden spot of Ethiopia," is the objective of the Italian armies from both the north and the south. Taking Harar, they would have conquered the eastern half of Ethiopia, connecting their provinces of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

Large Ethiopian Force.

Some 200,000 Ethiopians are on the Webbe Shibeli to meet Graziani's attacks. In addition, Nasibu has thousands more in the mountain ravines and passes at the edge of the Ogaden desert region.

The day remained quiet on the northern front, where the fascisti under General Emilio de Bono await the "zero hour" for the march on Makale, strategic gateway to the interior.

The Italians hope for a big victory on next Monday, the thirteenth anniversary of Il Duce's march into Rome—and

The most urgent domestic matters, which heretofore caused the greatest trouble and resulted in action affecting the lives of all the British citizens, were relegated to the background.

JIMMY WALKER COMING HOME BUT FEARS WELCOME WILL BE TOO GREAT FOR HIM TO FACE

By ROGER D. GREENE,
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

DORKING, Surrey, England, Oct. 24.—(AP)—James J. Walker is nervous over the possibility that he will face in New York City one of the ticker tape parades he made famous when he ends his three-year, self-imposed "exile."

The former mayor was sentimental as he loaded a trunk in preparation for the trip, but not too sentimental for an aside.

He deserted his packing duties to discuss his return to the city where he resigned as mayor during the Seabury investigation. He was at the old Wayside Inn here. He and his actress-wife, Betty Compton, moved after his home was destroyed by fire two days ago.

"I want to go home," he remarked.

"Home—say—" he turned to his wife, "—that sounds like heaven, doesn't it?

"New York! I want to go home just like Mister Average Citizen—one of the seven and a half million—or even less like one of its former mayors."

Walker made it clear that the prospect of his arrival on the liner Manhattan Oct. 31 and the chance of a civic parade terrified him.

"I read in a New York column the other day," he said, "that every siren and whistle in New York harbor will blow for an hour when Jimmy Walker comes back from England,' and all I can say is I hope not.

"That's all past and gone. It was great fun when I was mayor. We got Grover Whalen to greet Ramsay MacDonald, Pierre Laval, Queen Marie, the Crown Prince of Sweden, the Crown Prince of Japan, Colonel Lindbergh, Marshal Foch, and that little girl from Tenth avenue, Gertrude Ederle, who crossed the channel—but now I am just a private citizen. The big show is over."

Walker emphasized he is going back to resume the law practice he dropped to become mayor in 1928.

PROBLEM OF IMMEDIATE MOMENT AND LONG RANGE PLANNING FACE PRESIDENT ON RETURN TO DES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The vacation-rested President plunged today into an immediate discussion of the Italo-Ethiopian situation and America's attitude toward it.

Many other things were on his schedule too, but a talk with Secretary Hull over a luncheon table overshadowed the rest.

Hull, along with Mrs. Roosevelt and Secretaries Roper and Morgenthau, met the President at the train and had a brief talk with him. For the moment it was clear Mr. Roosevelt was primarily interested in being brought up to date on events abroad.

There was no indication as to when an American reply would be dispatched to a League of Nations communication asking for this government's reaction to its program of sanctions against Italy.

It generally was believed, however, that the President would enunciate again America's desire for peace and a determination to keep out of any foreign conflict.

DECREASE REPORTED IN TURKEY SUPPLY FOR COMING SEASON

REPORT FEWER AND SMALLER FLOCKS TO AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT

AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—(Spl.)—The number of turkeys in the country has decreased sharply since last year, judging from returns from crop reporters of the United States Department of Agriculture showing the numbers of turkeys in their own flocks last year and this year. Decreases appear to be much greater for ordinary farm flocks than for large commercial flocks. The returns show not only distinctly fewer of these small flocks, but their average size is considerably less than last year. The proportion of the farmers that reported turkeys this year is from 3 to 5 per cent less than last year in the South Atlantic and Far Western states and nearly 10 per cent less in the other grand divisions. It is impossible to give a close estimate of the extent of the reduction, although it is certainly heavy and probably not far from 18 per cent. The reported decrease is greatest in the South Central states, where numbers are down apparently about 25 per cent, owing mainly to a very short turkey crop in Texas this year. The decrease reported for the East Central states is about 9 per cent, for the West North Central, 14 per cent, and for the Far Western states about 5 per cent. The North Atlantic division registers about the same number of birds on hand this year as last, while in the South Atlantic division, numbers appear to have increased about 2 per cent.

Last year, decreases of about 20 per cent occurred in the West Norht Central states and of 7 per cent in the West South Central, while a gain of about 7 per cent was shown for the North Atlantic states; changes elsewhere being slight.

The shortage in supplies of turkeys this year compared with last appears to be most acute in the important producing states of Texas and North akota, in which states numbers are reported down more than one-third. Increase is shown in the important producing states of Minnesota and Oklahoma, but other states west of the Mississippi river show decreases; likewise Pennsylvania and Northern New England show increases over last year but the other northeastern states all show decrease. On the other hand, Virginia, Georgia and Kentucy show decrease, while all of the other states of the Southeastern group show increases.

No Adequate Report.

Unfortunately, no adequate investigation was possible either this year or last concerning the absolute number of turkeys in large commercial flocks. The number of such flocks included in reports from crop correspondents is not great enough to give an accurate indication of the trend of production by those who produce turkeys on a large scale. From the reports received, it appears that in the aggregate the reduction in numbers of turkeys produced in large flocks is slight if any and this has been taken into consideration in the present estimate of 13 per cent reduction in total production.

While the number of turkey poults produced and sold this year by commercial hatcheries is very much greater than the number last year, it is not known to what extent this increase in poults sold may reflect on the one hand a possible increase of production by large, turkey producers, or on the other a tendency on the part of turkey producers generally to buy commercially hatched poults, instead of hatching their own poults. Many producers last year in the area that suffered so severely from drought were compelled to close out their entire flocks and many of these would be able to raise a flock this year unless they bought commercially hatched poults.

Birds Are Heavier.

While the evidence drawn from these returns from crop reporters points rather definitely to a very material reduction in numbers, general trade information is to the effect that the birds being marketed this year are considerably heavier than those reaching market at this time last year when the drought compelled the marketing of many birds at earlier ages and at lighter weights than is customary. If this tendency to production of heavier birds should characterize the entire marketings, as is to be expected in view of the more abundant feed supply and the present relatively higher prices for turkeys than for poultry feed, the decrease in the total tonnage of turkeys marketed may not be nearly so great as the decrease in numbers. This fact is important in considering the relation of supply and demand in the case of hotels and restaurants, where the demand expresses itself in pounds rather than in numbers of turkeys. It is not so important in connection with the demand for household use, where the unit is the number of turkeys rather than the number of pounds. On the other hand, if the proportion of heavy birds marketed this year is unusually large, it is to be expected that smaller birds suitable for household use will command a premium in the price per pound over that paid for heavier birds.

While turkeys are commonly considered as a luxury, the prevailing shortage and high prices of meats generally should be effective in strengthening the demand for turkeys this year.

Farm prices of turkeys on September 15 this year average 14.4 cents per pound, compared with 11.8 cents last year and 10.7 cents on September 15, 1933. The increase in price of turkeys is 2.6 cents per pound compared with an increase of 2.7 cents per pound in the farm price of chickens. The price of poultry feed decreased from 149.7 cents per hundred pounds on September 15 last year to 137.9 cents on that date this year.

High School Aid Is Offered Now by NYA

County Superintendent G. H. Brown, a member of the Navarro county board of the National Youth Administration, received a telegram Wednesday afternoon from Z. S. Armstrong, Dallas, director N. Y. A., which follows and is self-explanatory:

"High school aid now authorized for all students 16 years or over, who are unable to attend without this aid. Give relief students preference. Applications must be made to high school principals."

ALL COUNTY SCHOOL PRINCIPALS URGED BEAUTIFY GROUNDS

G. H. BROWN ADDRESSES COMMUNICATION TO SCHOOL HEADS OF COUNTY

G. H. Brown, county superintendent, Navarro county public schools, made public the following statement today addressed to the principals of county schools urging active participation in the beautification campaign now under way in this county:

"We are continuing our county beautification program through our schools. I want to thank each principal for the work that was accomplished during the past term. There are yet a few schools that have not caught the vision and it is to you that we make this S O S call.

"The school house and the school ground should be the beauty spot of the community. It should be the oasis from which depressed people could refresh themselves over and over again. No project can cause more enthusiasm or evoke more favorable comment from the patrons of the school than can a beautification project. Teachers, this work will be a monument to you. Leave your school a more attractive place because of your contact with it.

"If possible, we would like to see every school house in Navarro county painted, if the building needs it. Painting a building is economy and cheap insurance. It is an investment not an expediture. Grounds should be kept clean and free from debris. Native shrubs and trees can be planted with a minimum cost of labor. In some cases government aid can be secured for beautification. If you are interested in securing aid for a beautification project, see Mrs. Elizabeth Hanks, 628 West Second avenue, Corsicana. Many of our school yards should have their grounds levelled or landscaped.

"Tourists will be passing our buildings during the Centennial Exposition. Let us make our Navarro schools attractive. If Texas, in the words of the song writer, is the "Pride of the South," can we not make Navarro county the "Pride of Texas?" We as teachers of Navarro county have much to inspire us to dress up for the centennial. It was in this county and at Corsicana that the centennial idea was born, and perhaps no man has done more to make possible this great birthday party, than our own Lowry Martin. We owe it to our county and to our school students to study Texas history anew. We need to sing Texas songs in our schools and renew our allegiance to the ideals of those who have made possible our great state."

News of County Home Demonstration Clubs

Navarro.

Achievement Day was observed last Tuesday afternoon beginning with the yard demonstrator, Mrs. Sam Stroder. After the guests registered a short program was rendered, including several club songs, and "The Eyes of Texas" was sung. Mrs. Stroder gave her report. In using native plants as a screening, she said, "I planted them in December."

The arrangement of the yard and the flowers were admired by every one present.

The next place visited was the pantry demonstrator, Mrs. O. E. Cowsar. In addition to her report, she had on display every item needed in modern canning, also some cheese she had made. Several different varieties of flowers, compliments of the Whitefield Nursery were arranged attractively. Four entries were judged to enter the contest. Mrs. O. E. Consar won first place.

The guests then motored to the home of Mrs. E. V. Williams, the wardrobe demonstrator. Her wardrobe closet made of a refrigerator carton given by the T. P. and L. Co., was inspected, also a shoe rack made of an apple box was on display. She made a report giving amount spent for clothes.

An interesting collection of old pieces of hand work, china ware, glassware and a paper fan were arranged on two tables. In another room on a long table, gift baskets representing each month of the year proved that "gift time is any time on the farm."

The twenty-nine guests were then invited into the dining room and served fruit punch and assorted cookies. The meeting was closed singing, "When We All Get Together." —Reporter.

MOWING OF WEEDS IS IMPORTANT AID TO GOOD PASTURES

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 24.—(Spl.)—Pastures are an asset to any farm in Texas and the most important step in making these pastures productive is to mow the weeds, according to R. R. Lancaster, extension pasture specialist.

"Pastures should be mowed at least once a year," he said, "but to really get rid of all the weeds a pasture needs mowing at least twice a year over a period of a couple of years. The reason for mowing weeds is to allow the necessary sunlight and moisture to get to the grasses."

The extension pasture specialist was emphatic in explaining that grass is the cheapest, best and most convenient feed a farmer can raise. He pointed out that keeping a pasture in good condition will pay back dividends each year.

"Upland pastures that water will run off of, that are thinly sodded," he said, "should be terraced with a couple of plow furrows before seeding. It this is done while the ground is moist, the grasses will likely continue to grow on these furrows."

Lancaster said that the importance of dividing a large pasture into smaller divisions and rotating the livestock from one division to the other has been proven worthwhile many times. He explained that this method will enable a pasture to carry more stock than if the large pasture was grazed as one division. Livestock will pick out the most choice grasses in a large pasture and leave the other grasses, thus retarding the growth of the best grasses.

"Grass must not be grazed too close without a rest period," Lancaster stated, "or the growth of the grass will be unduly stunted. Regrowth will take place on heavily grazed pastures if a rest period is observed."

He concluded by again saying that once Texas farmers find out the real cash value pastures have, they will eventually all have one or two pastures on their farms.

Dick Powell Coming to Palace

The thrill and romance of naval officers in the making, men who in peace or in war, heroically brave death for their country in their line of duty, is colorfully depicted in the new Warner Bros.-Cosmopolitan drama-with-music, "Shipmates Forever," which is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Palace theater starting Friday and running through Sunday.

It is an intimate and revealing story of the lives of the midshipmen in their study rooms at Annapolis, on the parade grounds and their cruises at sea. It pictures them at work and at play; their loves an dtheir laughter; their loyalty and their courage "under fire."

Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler head the cast. Dick personifies the raw cadet, somewhat spoiled but with the makings of a man, who is whipped into shape as a gallant officer through the rigor of the Naval Academy training, and Ruby the loyal daughter of the Navy.

Dick sings; fights a bitter battle alone with himself and finally winds up as a hero who dashes through scalding steam and flame to rescue a shipmate. Ruby dances to gay throngs, the while she fights desperately to win the man she loves to the traditions of the Navy.

REMODELING STARTS ON PALACE; CHANGE IN SHOW SCHEDULE

Work of remodeling and repairing the Palace theatre has started. Some plastering and minor changes are being made this week. The show will be closed Sunday night for the general repairs which will include installation of new seats, a new carpet, new electrical fixtures, a new heating unit, re-arrangement of the seats, some changes in the interior, a new box office, a new sign and other repairs.

A change in the schedule of the pictures has been made on account of the work to be done. "Shipmates Forever," which was scheduled for a midnight show Saturday night and closing Tuesday will be shown Friday, Staurday and Sunday. "Fighting Youth," booked for Friday and Saturday, has been cancelled.

The show will probably remain closed a week, no definite date having been set for its re-opening.

Card of Thanks.

We want to thank all the friends who were so good and kind during the illness and death of our wife, mother and grandmother. Also for the many floral offerings. May God's richest blessing rest upon you all.—C. L. Wylie, Children and Grandchildren.

AMIDST RUINS OF BABYLON, TRAVELLER SEES THRONE ROOM *

Germans Dug Up Confirmation of Bible Story ----Supreme Drama of Nations on Trial Before Higher Authority----Belshazzar's Feast Has Modern Message.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

I have this week been reading a novel, "Belshazzar," by William Stearns Davis, whose several books of historical fiction are of a high order. As the climax of this love story, the feast of Belshazzar and the capture of Babylon are pictured with dramatic power. Daniel, haled from prison to stand before the carousing monarch, who was dazed by the luminous and mysterious words on the palace wall, is nobly portrayed. This particular novel is but one of many reminders that for scenes of supreme romance and drama, one has to know the Bible.

When some of us were children in Sunday school, Belshazzar's identity had not been corroborated by secular history. Skeptics freely said that he was a fictional character, in a book of fiction, written late in the Maccabean period of the Jews' history. Since those days, archaeology has been busy digging up and deciphering contemporary cuneiform records; and Daniel has had overwhelming confirmation. Moreover, piercing to the heart of scholastic criticism of the Book of Daniel, it has been shown that the name Belshazzar never appears in the sources of history accessible to scribes of the Maccabean era.

Now we know a great deal about Belshazzar, last of the kings of Babylon, whose city was captured by the Medes and Persians in 538 B. C., on the night of the great feast, described in the Book of Daniel. In deed, Professor Raymond Philip Dougherty, of Yale, concluded an exhaustive study of the subject with these impressive words: "Of all the non-Babylonian records dealing with the situation at the close of the Neo-Babylonian empire, the fifth chapter of Daniel remains next to cuneiform literature in accuracy."

A Visit To Babylon.

Belshazzar was the son of Nabonidus and grandson of the great Nebuchadrezzar, whose palace he inherited. Before the war—and since, also, for that matter—I visited Babylon, where a large staff of German archaeologists, under Dr. Kaldeway, had excavated the city and especially the royal palace. A remarkable reconstruction of their finds may be seen today in the new Oriental Museum in Berlin, something no traveller to Europe should miss.

As, throughout two days, the German archaeologists led me over the ruins of Babylon, and explained their work. I found myself returning again and again to the great throne room, its floor of square burnt bricks, each stamped with the name of Nebuchadrezzar, still intact, cemented by Mosul pitch. At one side of the room was an alcove, doubtless where the throne had stood.

This was the veritable spot where the high drama and tragedy of Belshazzar's feast had been enacted. These bricks had been pressed by the feet of the drunken revellers. On the eastern wall, now gone, opposite the king's dais, had appeared the ghostly, fiery message, written by no mortal hand. Is it any wonder that I returned repeatedly to this significant survival, to muse upon the glory and power of ancient Babylon, and of the overruling authority Whose moral law no sovereign may safely flout? "Babylon is fallen!" but "Our God is marching on."

"Judge Of The Nations"

We are told by the International Lesson Committee that this tremendous tale of Belshazzar's feast should be treated from the temperance angle; and there is abundant material in it for so doing. But primarily, and more timely and important, it is a story of the judgment of Jehovah upon nations. That is the truth which our day needs to ponder. We are seeing staged abroad sensational repetitions of the Belshazzar mood. Great powers are flouting God and justice and human rights. The state is being exalted above all earthly or divine law. Modern Belshazzars strut and boast.

Can high heaven be uninterested? Or are we on the verge of great demonstrations of the power of the Eternal, who sits above all kings and governments? Devout spirits are praying everywhere,"

"Judge of the nations, spare us yet,
Lest we forget; lest we forget!"

No incident is closed until God has dealt with it. His reckoning is inevitable. Unless there be such a thing as eternal justice, all the faith of myriads of sincere Christians is misplaced. But we shall see, or are seeing, that the God of Daniel still reigns in heaven and in earth. To the devout mind, history is but His story.

Countering a curious prevalent mood of "internationalism," which would wipe out all national lines and identity, we have the plain teaching of the Bible that God reckons with nations as nations. The hour's challenge to all of us is to think in national terms. We are in dire danger today of thinking only as business men or as workingmen, as prosperous or as poor. This leads to classism, which destroys nationalism. As Theodore Roosevelt once said, a country cannot prosper for any of us unless it prospers for all of us. It takes wisdom and courage and unselfishness to enable one to be nationally-minded. Yet no duty is more imperative in this year of our Lord, 1935.

Daniel's Vindication.

Because we think in minutes, while God thinks in ages, many of us grow discouraged over the course of public affairs, at home and abroad. As among the Jews in Babylon, so today the cry goes up, "How long, O Lord, how long?" Things could not have been worse for the Jewish captives under Belshazzra's arrogant sway. Daniel, their outstanding figure, who had once been high in royal favor, was in eclipse, and perhaps in prison.

The heathen and their gods were on top. The roystering feast of royalty was but symbol of the seemingly unbreakable power of Babyon. Who could possibly challenge such vaunting might? As Hebrew slaves looked upon the strutting princes and officers and palace parasites, it must have seemed to them that all the teachings of their prophets were a delusion. Tyranny kept unchallenged company with revelry in that sumptuous palace feast.

Open and definitely, Jehovah was defied and mocked. The sacred vessels of the Jerusalem Temple were used as wine cups, to touch the lips of drunken feasters and courtesans, and to pour libations to the idols. Irereverence could go no further. Where was God?

He was there, as He is also present at every scene of dissipation and wickedness. And suddenly, mysteriously, He manifested His presence, for the vindication of His will and of His people. The bright lights of the royal banqueting hall suddenly appeared dim, in the blaze of a mysterious inscription that appeared on the wall:—

"MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN."

The Judgment Falls.

It seems as if Jehovah sometimes delights in dramatics. No setting could have been more spectacular for the Divine judgment. Amazament, fear, bewilderment smote the king and his company. None of Belshazzar's magicians or soothsayers could interpret the awful message. Then one with a long memory recalled Daniel, the forgotten Hebrew prophet.

It was the final touch of impressiveness when the gaunt figure of the burning-eyed Jew was introduced amidst that voluptuous scene, to declare, with the unabashed boldness of the man who knows that he speaks for God, the doom of the king and his kingdom. Judgment may be delayed; but it surely falls. That very night the Persian hosts took impregnable Babylon, and the glory that thousands of sycophants had long been singing departed in an hour.

Succumbed Tuesday

George E. Jester, native Corsicanan, and for many years engaged in the banking business in Corsicana, active vice president of the State National bank, died at his home here early Tuesday after an illness of several weeks with heart trouble. Mr. Jester was a member of a pioneer family of bankers of Navarro county and had won a high place in church and business circles of Corsicana by his rugged honesty and fairdealings.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR GEO. E. JESTER WEDNESDAY 3 P. M.

PROMINENT BANKER OF CORSICANA DIED SUDDENLY TUESDAY MORNING

George E. Jester, aged 66 years, native of Corsicana, a leader in financial, church and other activities for many years, died at his home, 709 West Third avenue, Tuesday morning at 12:45 o'clock, and the funeral was held from the First Methodist church of which he was a life-long member, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with burial in Oakwood cemetery. The rites were conducted by Rev. T. Edgar Neal, pastor of the church.

Mr. Jester was a descendant of early pioneer leaders of Navarro county, and was the greatgrandson of the founder of Corsicana.

Prominent Banker.

Entering the banking business shortly after completion of his education, Mr. Jester rapidly rose until he was recognized as one of the leading bank authorities in Central Texas and at the time of his death was vice president of the State National Bank here. Mr. Jester became connected with the Corsicana National Bank more than 40 years ago and later became associated with the First State Bank of Corsicana of which he was president for a number of years prior to its consolidation with the State National Bank in 1931.

After graduating from Corsicana High school, he graduated from Staunton Military Academy, Staunton, Va., and later attended school at Nashville.

He was married to Miss Lina Frost of Corsicana, daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Samuel Frost, pioneer residents of this section, who survives him. He is also survived by two daughters, Mrs. William Quinn, Dallas, and Miss Kathryn Jester, Corsicana; two brothers, Judge C. L. Jester and Dr. Homer B. Jester; two sisters, Mrs. J. L. Halbert and Mrs. Lowry Martin, all of Corsicana, and a number of nieces, nephews and other relatives.

Great-Grandson Hampton McKinney.

Mr. Jester was a great-grandson of Hampton McKinney, who built the first house in Corsicana in 1846. Mr. McKinney moved from South Carolina in 1814 to Illinois and in 1846 came to Melton (now Dresden) and selected the site of Corsicana as his future home while en route from Dresden to Chatfield to attend a revival meeting. Mr. McKinney was a Methodist minister, and on his return, constructed his home on what is now the northwest corner of the Navarro county courthouse square. Later Rev. McKinney constructed the McKinney Tavern, the first of its kind here, where the county jail now stands.

Mrs. Diadema Jester, grandmother of Mr. Jester and daughter of Rev. McKinney, and her family came to Navarro county from Illinois in 1858. Mr. Jester's father, the late Chas. W. Jester, enlisted in the Confederate army from Corsicana. His mother, Mrs. Eliza Rakestraw Jester, was the daughter of G. A. and Rebecca Kirksey Rakestraw, who came to Navarro county in 1854 and taught school here after several years spent at Kickapoo, Anderson county. G. A. Rakestraw also was a Confederate veteran.

For a number of years Mr. Jester was the treasurer of the Central Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and was recognized and regarded as one of the leading laymen of the denomination in this section.

Both the State National Bank and the First National Bank closed Wednesday at noon.

Directors of the State National Bank were pallbearers.

Employees of the bank were on watch at the home Tuesday night.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the Sutherland-McCammon Funeral Home.

Notice.

Elder W. R. Blackmon of Mexia will preach at the Primitive Baptist church on South Sixteenth street next Sunday, Oct. 27, at 3:30 p. m. The public is invited.

DODGE TRUCK FLEET ARRIVED THURSDAY; MADE SIDE TRIPS

A fleet of Dodge trucks under the supervision of factory representatives arrived in Corsicana early Thursday and were on exhibition during the day at the salesrooms of Jackson Brothers, Corsicana dealers, and made short visits during the morning to Richland, Wortham, Mexia and Teague, and in the afternoon to Emhouse, Powell and Kerens.

R. R. Harper and F. C. Burnett were included in the factory personnel in charge of the trucks, and they were joined on the tours by Robert Jackson of the local agency.

The truck caravan paraded the business section of Corsicana both morning and afternoon and drew a number of truck operators to the salesrooms for inspection of the new vehicles.

At 7:30 Thursday night, a free picture show will be presented in the Jackson Brothers quarters with a number of comedies and educational features scheduled for presentation along with an open house session for the agency's commercial and passenger vehicles.

A cordial invitation was extended the public to attend the showing.

Corporation Court.

Two charges of running over fire hose with automobiles, one of intoxication, one of affray, one of parking across a driveway, an one of intoxication and driving an automobile while intoxicated appeared on the docket of the Corporation Court Thursday mrning for the action of Judge S. Melear.

Get Rid of Poisons
Produced by Constipation

A cleansing laxative—purely vegetable Black-Draught—is the first thought of thousands of men and women who have found that by restoring the downward movement of the bowels many disagreeable symptoms of constipation promptly can be relieved. . . Mr. J. P. Mahaffey, of Clinton, S. C., writes: "I have found that Black-Draught is very effective in the cleansing of the system. When affected by the dull headache, the drowsiness and lassitude caused by constipation, I take Black-Draught." A natural, purely vegetable laxative.

CORSICANA, TEX., OCT. 25, 1936

DANGEROUS SOLEMNITY

An American minister returned from a European trip is most concerned about the deadly solemnity he finds in some countries.

"The seriousness with which the Germans take all the propaganda and the whole political situation," he says, "is difficult for an Englishman or a American to understand. An Englishman can criticise his prime minister mercilessly and yet to loyal to his politics. We can joke about our President and not like him the less. But in Germany any frivolity about Hitler is looked upon almost as blasphemy. Parades, decorations, salutes and every symbol of Nazism are treated with almost a religious reverence.

"If only your good German friends would not take themselves so seriously! If only the Italians could laugh a little!"

The American public will echo that sentiment. We are accustomed in normal times to criticizing frivolity; but this deadly seriousness is probably more dangerous to the nations concerned, and to the world than any frivolity. When an individual loses the ability to smile, he is in a bad way.

The mood of Germany and Italy seems to normal Americans no less than psychopathic. A nation that lost its mirth and its sense of humor has lost its balance wheel. That way madness lies.

A Will Rogers would be worth far more to Germany or Italy today than those grim, unsmiling, never-relaxing leaders, Hitler and Mussolini.

WORLD GOVERNANCE

The anonymous writer and critic known as "Unofficial Observer" makes quite a stir with his list of 25 men who "rule the world."

Casual readers will notice that three of the list are Americans — President Roosevelt, J. P. Morgan and John D. Rockefeller, Jr.— and half a dozen are English, with King George at the top, and let it go at that.

George rules, according to this analysis, along with Pope Pius, Leon Trotsky, the Japanese emperor and Mahatma Gandhi, in the "sphere of social behavior," by "mastering the conscience of humanity." This is a vague sphere of government, but very powerful.

More striking than the remarkable list of world leaders is the author's prophecy of threatened doom. The world, he says, is "rushing headlong to the brink of catastrophe; and from now [illegible] 1950 it will be nip-and-tuck whether civilization will be preserved at all, or the present state [illegible] exaggerate. Lately there have been reports from Tokio that the Japanese government, while officially noncommittal, may give at least passing support to League sanctions against Italy. The Japanese press and public have frankly shown sympathy with Ethiopia.

MASCULINE SIGNS.

When before the glass he stands,
Plastering down each wisp of hair;
When he starts to wash his hands
With the most surprising care;
When above his trouser belt
He won't let his shirt unfurl
It is plain that boy has felt
The sweet influence of a girl.

When he keeps his fingers clean
And his knuckles free from grime,
There's some lovely "sweet sixteen"
That he thinks of all the time.
When he starts to fret about
Collar points which upward curl
There is not the slightest doubt
That young fellow's met a girl!

When he stands with shoulders square
And no longer lets them sag;
When his handkerchief is fair,
Not a blackened, crumpled rag;
When he starts to brush his hat,
Keep his teeth like gleaming pearl,
You can be assured all that
Merely means he's met a girl!

THE BIG ENEMY.

There's a new villain in American literature, says Carl Van Doren, writer and publisher. His name is Poverty.

"He's taken the place of the old villain—Dullness. The older writers—Sinclair Lewis, Mencken, Hemingway and the rest—attacked Dullness. The outstanding trait among the new writers is a hatred of poverty. They are trying to find some sort of logic to explain what is happening.

"If they do anything, they precipitate a national consciousness. They speak to a large public. A good writer thinks and writes just what the public is beginning to feel."

These writers are not so sure as the old ones were, that if a man doesn't get a job it's his own fault. They are not necessarily radical. They want to know. They study people and social processes and try to figure out this strange situation where, with the greatest mastery over nature that mankind has ever attained, with a country rich in material resources and a mass of knowledge and skill superior to any previously existing, so many of us remain so bafflingly poor.

Anyone who can shed constructive light on this mystery deserves attention. Most of us still have faith that we can lick Old Man Poverty, but don't see just how to do it.

STEEL CIVILIZATION.

"Temper your souls like steel," Mussolini tells his young Fascist officers. It is a memorable utterance, a good example of the power of a strong man to burn ideas into people's minds. It is excellent advice, too, for people who have work requiring steel.

In another utterance to this same group the modern Caesar was no less effective, perhaps, but less logical. "The sword and civilization march together," he said.

His young Fascists will probably believe that; and believing it, they will make better soldiers for whatever purposes the Duce may have in view. But inevitably he starts millions of people abroad, and some at home, to asking: "What is civilization?" And "How will killing Abyssinians promote civilization?"

FRATERNIZING AGAIN —By Clive Weed

RELUCTANT WAR CREDIT

A big Italian shoe order is knocking at the doors of European shoe concerns in vain. Five hundred thousand army boots are wanted. A German agent first tried to place the order in his own country, but failed. Then he took it to the large Neimegen Company in Amsterdam, where it was turned down, they said, because of the probability that the Netherlands would participate in economic "sanctions against Italy.

English shoe workers had previously voted, at a meeting of their Union, to refuse to work on military boots for Italy.

The motives behind these refusals may be mixed. Italian credit may be quite as important a factor as the anticipation of League penalties to be applied to Italy. Bankers in the United States recently advised some exporters to ship nothing to Italy until they had the cash for it in hand in New York.

Credit is no longer to be had, merely for the asking, for war purposes. Too many lenders, both public and private, have learned that war loans may go up in smoke along with explosives.

BOYS' EDUCATION

A new photo shows students of the Tokio High School, oldest educational institution of this kind in Japan, parading proudly through the streets with rifles on their shoulders to salute the emperor at the Imperial Palace.

This apparently is a normal practice. The strange thing about it, to a philosopher or moralist, is that neither Japan nor in numerous other civilized countries that might be mentioned is such a thing considered strange. It is deemed natural, patriotic and praiseworthy for young boys to bear arms and start life imbued with a military spirit.

This would have been logical in ages when war was regarded universally as a normal thing. Is it so now, in a world which professes to abhor warfare and whose statesmen and private citizens are engaged so earnestly in efforts to promote peace? If they have to drill and fight, couldn't they be allowed to wait a little longer.

Then again, there arises the question whether a balanced budget would allow for the balanced ration among the unemployed.

War news lately is more complicated than football.

NEGROES CONFESS ASSAULT, BRUTAL MURDER WHITE GIRL

COLUMBUS, Texas, Oct. 22—(AP)—Sheriff F. F. Hoegemeyer and Texas Ranger E. M. Davenport said today two young negro farmhands had admitted the criminal attack and clubbing to death of Miss Geraldine Kollman, 19-year old Columbus high school honor graduate, last Thursday.

The negroes, Bennie Mitchell, 19, and Ernest Collins, 18, charged with criminal attack and murder, were rushed to the Harris county jail at Houston by Sheriff Hoegemeyer and Ranger Davenport after threats of mob violence here.

Sheriff Hoegemeyer said the negroes admitted encountering Miss Kollman while she rode horseback on her father's property. They pulled her from the horse, struck her with an elm club, attacked her and then tossed her body in Cummings Creek, the sheriff said the negroes admitted.

The negroes told Sheriff Hoegemeyer they had attempted to attack two negro girls the night before Miss Kollman was slain but had been "scared away."

Sheriff Hoegemeyer said both confessions named the other as a principal.

Justice of the Peace E. C. Thrower said the examining trial for the negroes would be held in an unnamde county because of the possibility of mob violence.

Body Found In Creek.

Miss Kollman disappeared from her home last Thursday and was at first believed to have accidentally drowned when her brother discovered her body floating atop waters of Cummings Creek.

Her body was sent to Houston where Victor Landig, an undertaker discovered bruises on her legs and arms and revealed no water had been found in her lungs. Sheriff Hoegemeyer, notified of these developments, started an investigation.

Mcroscopic examination of the girl's body made by rDs. E. C. Gordon and S. H. Kirkham of Columbus substantiated the murder theory.

Sheriff Hoegemeyer and Ranger Davenport arrested Mitchell on a farm about a mile northwest of Columbus Sunday. Four miles northeast of Columbus they found Collins on another farm.

Sunday night the men told officers the details of the attack and slaying, Sheriff Hoegemeyer said.

Charges were filed late yesterday before Justice Thrower and the negroes were hurried to Harris county.

Funeral services were held for Miss Kollman Sunday.

KENTUCKY DERBY WINNING JOCKEY IS SOUGHT IN MURDER

WILLIE SAUNDERS AND ANOTHER MAN BE QUESTIONED IN WOMAN'S DEATH

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 22.—(AP)—With Jockey Willie (Smokey) Saunders of Kentucky Derby fame reported on his way to Louisville for questioning in the auto death of Mrs. Evelyn Sliwinski, police concentrated today in a search for Toni Sani, an exercise boy.

Detectives said the search for Sani was given impetus by the statement of Elmore Daneuhauer, business agent for Saunders and the Headley stables, to Baltimore detectives that Sani was with Saunders here Saturday night a few hours before Mrs. Sliwinski's death.

Police named Saunders, who rode Omaha to victory in the 1935 derby, and Sani as the men they wanted to question about the after-the-party slaying of the Louisville married woman. Saunders was reported to have left for Louisville when police in Baltimore wnet to Saunders' hotel ther early today to question him.

D. B. Headley, whose uncle, Hal Price Headley of Lexington, Ky., holds Saunders' riding contract, expressed the belief that Saunders was on his way back to Louisville.

Headley, staying at another Baltimore hotel, said he telephoned Saunders and advised him he was wanted for questioning in the slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Sliwinski, 24-year-old wife of a Louisville tailor, whose mangled body, crushed by automobile wheels, was found in a road early Sunday.

"I advised him to go back and see what it's all about," Headley said. "No, he didn't seem bothered about it."

Saunders and his booking agent, E. "Whitey" Danehauer, arrived in Baltimore late yesterday and registered at a hotel there.

Louisville police were informed that Saunders, Danenhauer and a third man, known to acquaintances here only as "The Dago," left Louisville early Sunday morning in an automobile.

Checking on "The Dago."

Officers were checking up to determine whether "The Dago" fitted the description of the second man they wanted in the case.

The party that preceded the slaying was related to police by Mrs. Agatha Mackison, 28, who identified a photograph of Saunders as that of Mrs. Sliwinski's companion on the Saturday night party.

Mrs. Mackison was quoted by Detective Capt. William A. Oeltjen as saying she, Mrs. Sliwinski, and two men she knew only as "Jimmie Smith" and "Tommy," met at a saloon and visited several night clubs.

"Jimmie" she identified from a photograph of Saunders.

"Tommy," she said, spoke Italian fluently. Both spent money freely and talked fluently about racing.

Knocked Woman Down.

"Jimmie" and Mrs. Sliwinski quarreled, Mrs. Mackison's statement related. He knocked her down, and later resumed the quarrel in the car and ordered her out.

"She walked around in front of the car," Mrs. Mackison's statement to police related. 'Tommy,' the man I was with, stepped on the gas and ran over Evelyn. We kept going for several miles and turned. As we came back about 50 miles an hour we ran over her again. As I felt the wheels pass over her body I screamed.

"'What's the matter with you?' Tommy asked. 'We didn't hit anything; maybe a cat.'

"After we drove a little while longer they stopped and got out and inspected the car. I think they wiped the wheels. Then we started again.

"'Jimmie' said, 'step on it. I think the law's after us.' They took me to my home.

"'Just remember this,' they told me. 'You ain't seen nothing, you ain't heard nothing; you don't know anything, and you're lucky you're alive.'"

Mrs. Mackison said she hesitated about telling police, because she was afraid she might be killed.

Held For Questioning.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Whitey Danenhauer, who came here with Willie Sanders, jockey sought for questioning in a Louisville slaying, was taken to police headquarters today for interrogation.

Meanwhile police reported they had found an automobile owned by Saunders in a downtown garage. The car was rodered held.

WORK ON REPAIRS LAKE HALBERT DAM BE STARTED SOON

Work on the repairs to the dam at Lake Halbert are expected to start within the next few days, following receipt of the funds allocated to the project by the Palestine district offices of the Works Progress Administration Tuesday.

District Administrator Wade Smith informed the Corsicana Daily Sun by telephone that work would be started as soon as the preliminaries could be completed and promised an early announcement on the actual starting date. He also reported that work would be started at once on a sewer repair project at Frost involving a total expenditure of some $600.

City Engineer W. V. Mowlam and other city officials were expected to go to Palestine Tuesday afternoon to confer with district authorities on details of the start of work. A large amount of the preliminary engineering has been completed on the project and everything possible to expedite the work has ben done according to local officials.

The repair project was one of the first to be submitted from this county, and its approval was announced in Washington on Sept. 26, almost a month ago. Administrator Smith reported that he reconceived the notification Tuesday morning that the funds were now available and the authorization to start the work.

The project calls for a federal expenditure of about $57,000 in federal funds and $11,000 of city money in the raising of the dam to the proper level, doing necessary backfilling, and then riprapping the structure with crushed rock, as well as improving roads to and from the project.

Original plans called for the initial employment of a crew of 150 men and in order to keep the project working at top speed probably twice that number will be required. The number will increase each month until about the fifth month of work, reaching a maximum of more than 250 men.

Work was reported about half completed on the rebuilding and repairing of bridges on the roads in the southern portion of the county.

REDUCE BANKHEAD COTTON GINNING TAX STARTING OCTOBER 21

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A reduction in the Bankhead cotton ginning tax from 6 to 5.45 cents per pound of lint cotton, effective as of Oct. 21, was announced today by the AAA.

The Bankhead law provides that a tax shall be collected on all cotton ginned in excess of a national allotment. The AAA said 10.90 cents per pound had been determined as the average price of lint cotton "for a representative period."

The Bankhead law provides that the tax shall be 50 per cent of the average market price of 7-8 inch middling spot cotton on the 10 spot markets for a representative period. However, the tax may not be less than 5 cents per pound.

At the same time, the AAA announced a reduction in the sale price of cotton tax exemption certificates from 5 to 4 cents a pound. With this reduction, the farm administration said the special surplus cotton tax exemption certificate pool has been closed and the regular 1935 national pool will be opened soon.

These pools were set up by the AAA to permit a grower who did not produce the full amount of his allotment to sell his tax exemption certificates for the balance.

Producers who grow more than their allotments may buy tax exemption certificates from the pool at a rate lower than the actual tax.

The AAA said the special pool would have closed on Nov. 7, but that sales terminated Saturday and the pool will be liquidated as soon as its operations can be audited.

Schaeffer as principal and Saunders as accessory defined an automobile as the instrument of murder.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Murder charges against Willie Saunders, smart little jockey who rode Omaha to Kentucky Derby and Preakness glory this year, and one of his pals, Walter Schaeffer today met stout denials by both.

Saunders was at liberty under $5,000 bond for preliminary hearing Oct. 31 in the slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Sliwinski during a wild party last Saturday night.

Schaeffer, driver of Saunders' car as the party went from one night club to another, was in custody at Baltimore facing a similar charge. He agreed to waive extradition.

Both denied responsibility in the death of Mrs. Sliwinski, their party companion whose body was mangled by an automobile.

Schaeffer contradicted a statement by Mrs. Agatha Mickinson, second girl on the party, that the automobile was deliberately driven over Mrs. Sliwinski. His version of the party likewise disagreed in some particulars with that given by Saunders.

Saunders told Chief of Detectives Edward McElliott that Mrs. Sliwinski got out of the automobile when she became ill from too many gin bucks and was left at the road side, and that he, Schaeffer and Mrs. Mackinson drove further up the road. They came back, he said, and at the point where Mrs. Sliwinski was put out he "felt a bump" and "had an idea they might have hit the girl."

Saunders qualified this by saying he was in the back seat of the car and had no personal knowledge that they had struck the woman. He said the two women were intoxicated, but that he and Schaeffer were not.

Said All Pretty Drunk.

Schaeffer said all four were "pretty drunk". He agreed with Saunders' version that Mrs. Sliwinski became ill and asked to get out of the car. He drove the car away from where she got out, Schaeffer related, then after several miles turned around and came back.

Schaeffer said on the return trip he saw the young woman's body lying in the road, swerved to pass it, and saw another car coming from the opposite direction. He was frightened, he said, and continued on to Louisville.

Schaeffer said the second car came to a stop after he had driven past it.

Mrs. Mackinson, in her statement to police that preceded filing of charges against the two youths said her escort drove the car over the body twice, once as Mrs. Sliwinski staggered in the road after getting out of the car, and again coming from the opposite direction "about 50 or 60 miles an hour."

The invitations, however, did not buoy the hopes for naval disarmament. The conference is mandatory under treaty obligations.

Mussolini's Peace Terms.

Mussolini's peace terms, as published widely in Paris, include disarmament of Haile Selassie's empire; an Italian protectorate over the eastern half of the empire, of which Harrar is the meropolis; and an international protectorate over the western central regions, in which is located Addis Ababa.

Il Duce—after making a gesture toward a better understanding with Great Britain in order—the withdrawal of a division of troops from Libya, bordering Egypt on the west—pressed upon Premier Pierre Laval for action on these terms.

In authoritative circles close to Laval, there was an openly expressed belief neither Great Britain nor France would accept such terms.

Haile Selassie has abruptly refused to consider any such proposals.

In London, Italy's peace proposals received a cold shoulder and it was emphasized anew the end of hostilities in East Africa must be on a basis acceptable to the League of Nations, which labeled the fascist dictator the aggressor in his conquest.

Too Big a Bite.

In the circle about Laval, it was believed Mussolini "had a growing feeling he had bitten off more than he could chew."

As one possible evidence of this, it was plainly stated by officials in Rome that the negotiation of peace would be difficult under the pressure of sanctions imposed by the League of Nations.

In other words—Italy, while it talks peace with other powers who are backing the league, wants the deadline for putting sanctions into effect delayed.

On Oct. 31, the League of Nations sanctions general staff must fix the date for the enforcement of the most drastic of all the penalties imposed at Geneva—the economic boycott of Italy, the "buy nothing" sanction.

So far, there has been no indication from either Paris or London that the sanctions deadline will be delayed.

Premier Laval plainly told the Chamber of Deputies he had "never hidden from Mussolini that France would have to associate itself with sanctions against an aggressor state."

Will Aid Britain.

The premier told the Chamber of Deputies' foreign affairs committee, it was said, that France's battleships would steam immediately to the assistance of Britain if the latter's fleet was attacked by Italy in the Mediterranean while carrying out any mandate of sanctions against Italy.

There was no doubt the announcement of Mussolini, offering to withdraw troops from Libya contributed greatly to lessening the tenseness between Italy and Britain. This was followed by evidence of Britain's willingness to trim down its naval strength in the Mediterranean.

But all this was symbolism. The troops could return to Libya in a day; the British feet could be strengthened in the Mediterranean overnight.

Il Duce's gesture brought a more friendly atmosphere in London toward Italy; but informed observers there believed it had no real effect on settling the conflict in Ethiopia.

As Captain Anthony Eden, the British minister for League of Nation affairs, pointed out in his House of Commons address, peace can not be negotiated between Rome and London; but between Rome and Geneva.

Advance Unopposed.

ROME, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Italy's paeceful penetration of the Ethiopian province of Tigre beyond the lines now occupied by its troops continues, it was reported in today's official communique.

Otherwise, the official announcement said, there were no new developments on the Eritrean front.

RED CROSS

Following is the text of Congressman Johnson's address:

"I count it a privilege to speak a word of welcome in behalf of my native city to the representatives of this great organization who have gathered here from different sections of our state for this regional conference.

"Corsicana is an appropriate place for your meeting. While we do not boast of vastness of size either in population or of wealth, the quality of our people, when measured in terms of real value, of culture and of character, will compare favorably with that of any city in America, regardless of size. The humanitarian spirit is predominant here, and any organization whose purpose is to help humanity will find this a congenial place in which to hold its deliberations.

"I congratulate you therefore for being in Corsicana where you will find an atmosphere of sympathy and good will on the part of our entire citizenship.

"You are to be congratulated also for the noble purpose which brings you here. It is my understanding that the purpose of this meeting is to stimulate renewed interest in the activities of the Red Cross and to present in some detail methods of conducting the annual Roll Call, held throughout the country from Armistice day to Thanksgiving, which is the means of obtaining funds with which to carry on the work of the Red Cross.

An Unselfish Work.

"It is a inspiration to look into the faces of those who are charged with the responsibility of carrying on this important work—those who unselfishly and promptted by altruistic motives and a love of humanity, labor that the Red Cross may live and minister to mankind.

"The Red Cross was first created to mitigate the horrors of war by alleviating the suffering of the sick and wounded. In 1859 Henri Dunant of Geneva, Switzerland, witnessed a battle in Italy where thousands of wounded lay on the battlefield with no one to minister to them, and he conceived the idea of an international organization. After years of agitation such an organization was created and over forty counties are now members of the International organization.

"The American Red Cross was formed in 1881 under the leadership of Clara Barton who was its first president. Congress realizing its importance and national necessity by act of Congress of Jan. 5th, 1905, incorporated it under the name "The American National Red Cross," with the president of the United States as its president and the War Department as its auditor. It is one of the few organizations which has a national character. The American Legion is the only other organization that I now recall.

Works in Peace Also.

"The American Red Cross has never confined its activities to suffering in time of war, but has sought to alleviate human suffering in peace time as well. Since 1919 the Red Cross of most of the other countries of the world have begun to exted its ministrations to peace time suffering also.

"The active executive head of your organization, Dr. Cary T. Grayson, I have the honor of knowing personally. He was the personal physician of Woodrow Wilson our great war president, he is a son of old Virginia, a man of wide experience, a humanitarian and in my judgment no better equipped man could be found in the United States for this position.

"I do not know whether it is because of the excellent officers you have had, or whether it is due to the careful auditing by the War Department, or whether it is the holy work in which the Red Cross is engaged, but there is an absence of graft and no charges of this kind are heard in this day of criticism. I do not now recall of having heard any adverse criticism of the Red Cross.

"Last year there was not what we would call a major disaster, but there were 128 disasters in the continental United States where the Red Cross gave relief. These were located in 37 of the 48 states and the territory of Alaska. Relief was given to 110,000 victims of these disasters in 306 counties. Disasters included dust storms, explosions, fires, floods, epidemics of disease, shipwrecks and all types of storms and hurricanes.

Nearly alf Million.

"The expenditures of the National Red Cross in disaster relief within the continental United States during the year were $464,413.

"Disaster relief was only a small part of the work; in addition there was what is known as first aid, life saving program, service to veterans, service to army, navy, marine corps and coast guard, nursing reserve, public health nursing, home hygiene service, immunization against disease, civilian relief and volunteer special service. There are 3,711 Red Cross chapters and these with their branches expended apuproximately $5,600,000 during the year in services to their local communities. The National organization expended for its national service program approximately $2,945,000.

"The membership enrollment for the year was 3,837,941 an increase of 35,557 members over the roll call for the previous year.

"These statistics of money contributed and relief given are revealing of the character of the American people. A half century ago a great English jurist lay dying and when asked what in his judgment society needed most of all he said 'If I were to sum up its needs in one word I would say it is the need of "sympathy" and with the word sympathy trembling upon his lips the spirit of the immortal Talford passed away.

Sympathy Grows.

"The founding of the Red Cross and its growth from a war organization to that of service to humanity at all times and the creation of other benevolent institutions is evidence that our civilization has been expanding and developing and that we have more sympathy now than when Justice Talford passed away.

"There is no organization which pays such large dividends on the small amount invested as membership in the Red Cross. Dividends which cannot be counted in cash but in good deeds to others. Dividends which will survive the depression when other investments hae been swept away.

"We are living in a changing world—it sometimes seems that we are groping our way in the darkness—some think we are going forward, somethat we are retrograding—but the surest sign that our civilization has not failed, that the great heart of America is still sound, that our fathers have not lived in vain—is the spark of sympathy, manifest in our giving, the giving of ourselves and of our means to save humany.

Mr. Mitchell then presented Mrs. Hennessey. In her opening remarks, Mrs. Hennessey declared that the Red Cross, during the past 50 years has grown in usefulness and extended its influences. Other organizations have come and gone, she said, but the Red Cross has become an institution. She attributed the Red Cross' permanence to its flexibility to meet emergencies and needs "along many fronts," and its adaptability to the changing needs.

Accident Prevention.

Turning to the new work of the Red Cross, the Home and Farm Accident Prevention and Highway First Aid programs, Mrs. Hennessey said the new program has been brought about because of the rapid development of transportation facilities, and many new conveniences in the homes and farms that are hazardous if not handled properly.

She pointed out that 50,500 men were injured or killed in the late World War while last year 101,000 were killed in the United States by accidents. The field representative pointed out that there are only three diseases that are more dangerous than accidents, and include cancer, heart diseases and cerrebral hemorrage. She maintained that the most of the aaccidents were preventable, and in many cases resulted from carelessness on the part of someone.

Cited Statstics.

The speaker cited many statistics showing that in 1934 there were 36,000 deaths and 100,000 permanent injuries resulting from automobiles, and more surprising still, there were 150,000 permanent injuries resulting from home carelessness.

Mrs. Hennessey declared further that farming has become the most hazardous occupation, because of the increased use of machinery. Last year, she went on, 4,400 fatalities were recorded on farms, and only 2,300 fatalities in construction work. She said farm accidents became more significant because of the fact that in most cases farm people are so far removed from first aid relief.

"While the loss of life itself cannot be measured in dollars and cents," she continued, "the economic loss through medical cost and wage loss is very dear to America. The annual cost of accidents averages three and a half billion dollars."

Educational Campaign.

The new Home and Farm Accident Prevention program, the speaker pointed out, proposes to show the people the necessity of such a program, and than to carry on educational campaigns to lower the number of accidents. She named ten sources of home accidents, which included standing on boxes, steps and stairways, bathtubs and wax floors, fire precaution, suffocation and asphyxiation, improper labelling of medicine bottles, careless disposal of nails, pins and broken glass, "unloaded" guns, dry ice burns, and fire hazards resulting from the sun shining through glass objects.

Mrs. Hennessey next went into an exposition of the ways suggested to combat these hazerds. She said a "Home and Farm Accident Prevention" committee should be appointed, and it will be that committee's duty to gather local statistics and information to put before the local people. She said between October 28 and November 1 questionnaires will be given to school children to fill out. Another phase of the work will be an educational campaign to be carried on prior to the Christmas holidays, to prevent the customary large number of Christmas accidents of varying causes.

Work Already Started.

She said many chapters have already begun this work, and much progress is being made. The field representative then enumerated a number of good suggestions growing out of the work of the chapters already started the campaign, and suggested special work in the junior Red Cross, in the schools, farm boys and girls clubs and among the farmers and their families.

Turing to the highway first aid programs, Mrs. Hennessey said the National Red Cross is putting first aid stations at strategic points on the busier highways, and are securing the co-eperation of state highway departments. She explained that it is also planned to organize mobile units of some kind.

In closing Mrs. Hennessey said: "We ask each of you to get behind your chapters nad chairmen, and help make the homes, farms and highways safer for all of us and our families."

Mr. Mitchell next introduced Mr. Keisker, whose subject was announced as "The Annual Roll Call."

Mr. Keisker asked in opening, "Why do we conduct Roll Call?" His address answered the questions with an answer having three phases.

He said that the first reason is let the various chapters know what other chapters are doing; second, to enable all the chapters to know more fully of all the many activities of the National Red Cross, and third, to give out information to the public to acquaint it with the work of the organization.

Work In Texas.

The speaker named many activities of the Red Cross, and gave numerous interseting statistics upon the work of each in Texas. Among the activities named were the disaster relief, home service programs, civilian home service, first aid programs, first aid on highway programs, life saving, junior Red Cross, public health nursing, home hygiene and care of sick programs and special programs such as "production" and the Braille work, the latter having been very prominent in Texas during the past year.

He discussed the national organization and said it is unique, because it too, carries on a service program. Among the other national organization's activities were the disaster relief, war relief, war service, field service, though, Mr. Keisker said the last named service is limited, first aid on the highway.

Discussing the third answer to his original question, Mr Keisker said that no matter how much service a chapter renders to its community, the public is not informed of this work, the community will not respond to the roll call. He suggested these mediums for spreading the information: 1, word of mouth; 2, the public press; 3, the radio; 4, outdoor advertising; 5, motion pictures, 6, the mails.

Three Phases.

The speaker said the Roll Call lends itself in three phases including the plan, which should include good districting; well informed workers and well planned actual solicitation. Speaking of the latter point, Mr. Keisker said a goal to contact every adult in the community should be set, and those persons should be contacted during a specified period.

In closing Mr Keisker said he hoped that all roll call chairmen would feel responsible to see every adult in the community contacted, and that he hoped this year each chapter will try to duplicate its best years work during the past five years.

At the conclusion of Mr. Keisker's address, Mr. Mitchell made several announcements, and the delegates stood up an introduced themselves and gave their position in the Red Cross and the city or county from which they came.

At 12.05 the meeting took a 10 minute recess before the luncheon meeting in the Navarro hotel dining room. Dr. William DeKleine, medical dircetor American National Red Cross was the principal speaker, and a program of readings and musical numbers fitting to the occasion was given by Corsicana talent.

Afternoon Session.

At 2 o'clock the sessions were resumed on the mezzanine floor and roundtable discussions of several probiems ensued. Among the topics discussed were the Roll Call, Home and Farm Accident Prevention and Highway First Aid.

H. W. Prather, secretary of the Dallas county chapter delivered the principal address of the afternoon session upon the subject, "Disaster Appeals, An Obligation of All Chapters." The conference adjourned at 3:30 o'clock.

A GOOD T REATMENT

Quick Face Treatment.

Miss Forbes gives a face treatment for the woman who is always in a hurry and cannot spare much time working over her looks.

The following is a most excellent treatment for the woman who has not much time, and practically no money for beauty shop attentions. This will keep her skin in good condition—assuming she has good health and a good digestion—and it will keep DA[illegible] face young. The re[illegible]nts are an old turned jar of cold cream—not necessarily trip i[illegible] pensive cream, plenty of the and hot water, a strip of fin[illegible] silk, strips of muslin torn up in bandage widths, foundation cream and a piece of ice.

The procedure is always the same. A little cream first on the face. Then soak the towel in hot water and, by making several applications, steam off this cream. Six applications are good; it makes the skin red, and it takes out the dirty cream. Then a not too gentle rubbing with cream again. Leave this on, and put the strip of oiled silk under the chin, and bind this on with the other strips of muslin, tying the chin up tightly. This braces the chin and the muscles around the mouth, whose sagging produces those middle-aged wrinkles.

Let this bandage remain in place a half-hour, and during that time you can work, sew or read. Wipe off the cream now with tissues, and then rub the skin with ice. Rub five to ten minutes. Pat almost dry, rub in some foundation cream and apply your powder over that. If you have not taken from two to ten years off your age by this treatment, then I resign forever my job of giving you beauty advice!

Two treatments like this a week should keep any woman getting towards or well into her forties from looking anything like her age. And the general stimulation is very good for the skin in more ways than one. It will clear coarse pores after a few trials.

Mrs. S.—If you reduce the amount of alchohol in the tonic formula, it will mean that the mixture will be very oily. You cannot have just the same effect if you change the amounts of the separate ingredients in any formula, and in that formula especially, as everything in it is in correct proportions. You will do much better to use some other hair tonic than to make the changes you contemplate with this one.

K. B.—An exercise for the thighs is done as follows: Stand with one foot in front of the other, hands on hips, and lower your body to almost a sitting position. You will be bending the knees, and the backward foot will turn so the heel is raised, while you all but sit upon it before rising again into the upright position. It takes a great deal of exercising to make any impression upon the thigh muscles, and they are also so strong that they do not tire easily.

Mrs. M. B.—Use the cream formula, and substitute lanolin for the oil given. That will be a very heavy mixture, suitable for a special massage when the skin is very dry. For general use, if you need lanolin for your skin, make up a cream in which lanolin and sweet almond oil are both used. Proportion the oil content so there will be either half and half, oil and lanolin, or a third and two-thirds, of either, just as you feel would be best for your skin. A lanolin cream would be too oily to be used no the skin for a base for powder.

Considerable southern hedging and some scattered liquidation was absorbed by trade buying and a continued demand from abroad which kept the market fairly steady within 3 or 4 points of yesterday's closing quotations at the end of the first hour.

New Orleans Cotton Steady.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The active buying which dominated yesterday's session of the cotton market apparently had dried up this morning and at the opening call futures were net unchanged to one point lower.

Failure of the threatened cold wave to materialize on time checked speculative buying and purchases by the trade were barely enough to offset the mild hedge offerings.

Dec. opened at 10.96 and then sold off at 10.93, while March at 10.94 and July at 10.99 were off nominal amounts in the early trading.

Good spot sales and continued possibility of colder weather in the belt failed to induce any buying during the morning and prices slipped off a few points.

Dec. sold at 10.94, March was three points lower at 10.94, while May was off 25 cents a bale at 10.95.

ing and bloodshed which probably otherwise may occur."

Shortly before the rangers were ordered to Beaumont, Edward Clark, secretary to Gov. James V. Allred, and Fred Nichols, state labor commissioner, came to Houston at the governor's request to obtain first hand information relative to the facts of the controversy and try to devise a plan for a peaceful solution to the 12-day dispute at Texas points and at Lake Charles, La.

Clark and Nichols conferred with Joseph S. Myers, of Houston, United States conciliator of labor. They said they probably would seek assignment of federal labor conciliators to all ports affected by the walkout.

Seek Conciliation.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Failure of Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor and George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, to arrive here today delayed a contemplated conference to seek conciliation of the Gulf ports International Longshoremen's Association strike.

After the two officials did not arrive on the morning airplane from Atlanta, Holt Ross, local representative of the American Federation of Labor and Joseph P. Ryan, national president of the International Longstoremens Association who was in New Orleans from New York, said they wehe considering leaving for Galveston.

Seek First Hand Information

BEAUMONT, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Edward Clark, secretary to Governor James V. Allred, and F. H. Nichols, state labor commissioner, arrived in Beaumont today to obtain first-hand information on the Longshoremen's strike.

Clark and Nichols went to Port Arthur at noon to attend a luncheon and to examine the strike problem at that city. They planned to return here later today and confer with the mayor and city officials.

From the survey, Clark said he thought the strike question was not one of as much violence as might be imagined. He was of the opinion the controversy could be settled by arbitration.

Settlement Reports.

GALVESTON, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Reports persisted here today that a settlement of the International Longshoremen's association strike at Texas ports might be effected shortly.

Steamship operators denied they had heard of such a plan and newspaper advertisements calling upon dock workers to form an independent unon again were printed.

Joseph P. Ryan, of New York, international I. L. A. president, and M. J. Dwyer, of Galveston, gulf coast district presdient, who have been in New Orleans for the past two days, will leave there tonight and arrive here tomorrow, local I. L. A. officials said.

Non-unon men still worked on the docks and in compresses here.

Ready to Send Rangers.

DALLAS, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Albert Sidney Johnson, chairman of the Texas Public Safety Commission, said today that rangers would be sent to gulf ports for duty in the longshoremen's strike "if and when the situation gets beyond control of local officers and request is made for them."

It was his opinion that so far there had been nothing in the situation which local authorities were not handling satisfactorily.

missioner to study a permanent plan whereby pensioners would contribute to the pension fund during productive years.

Amendments were adopted to bar forever persons who obtained pensions under false pretenses, to prohibit collection of fees for procuring pensions, to make persons making affidavits guilty of perjury and to require pensioners to show disposition of their property and income for two years preceding application.

An amendment to require publication of names of pensioners was defeated.

The house would vest pension supervision in an administrator appointed by the governor while the senate proposed a division of public welfare under the board of control.

An attempt to set an omnibus tax bill for pensions for special consideration was defeated, motions to give precedence to bills to increase the sulphur and gross receipts taxes on utilities met a similar fate.

Crude Oil Tax

Pending as the first order of business on the house calendar was a bill to increase the crude oil production tax to six cents a barrel with a committee recommendation to reduce it to two and one-quarter cents.

The senate passed and sent to the governor a house bill reducing to ten days the notice required before school district could call bond elections to obtain public works administration loans and grants. The governor estimated 150 districts were affected by the bill.

Committee reports were received on two general bills to set salaries for county and district officers removed from a fee basis and a third, to fix salaries for district attorneys of districts of two or more counties, was introduced.

Admissibility of a summary sale delinquent tax collection bill, introduced by Senators G. H. Nelson of Tahoka and T. J. Holbrook of Galveston was challenged by Senator Moore of Houston, who ruled the subject was not germane in matters submitted by the governor. A ruling was deferred.

House Near Pension Measure Decision

AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Representatives today reached a decision on pensions as the senate prepared to consider the session's second [illegible] salaries for county and district officers.

A house majority showed the lead of the senate declining to incorporate amendment in the pension [illegible] effort to suspend rules to [illegible] an omnibus tax measure. 50 to 85, after Speaker Stevenson ruled it was [illegible].

Advocates of the omnibus tax plan girded for a new floor test directly on the bill, which included a modified sales tax by a levy of one and one half per cent on retail sales with clothing, food and medicines exempted. It also proposed an increase of 12 1-2 per cent in occupation and natural resources levies.

The house worked under suspension of a rule permitting members to speak on personal privilege in an endeavor to speed pension legislation. Members were denied the right when a majority believed it was being abused.

May Go to Conference.

Upon passage of a pension bill by the house, the legislation may be dispatched to a conference committee for final revision. Principles approved by the house differed in several particulars to provisions in the bill passed by the senate.

A senate committee speedily reported two plans for paying county and district officers removed from the fee basis, the second major problem submitted this session. Senators agreed to submit the second plan, on which a bill had not been introduced, to speed action.

The other was the bill drafted by a senate committee during the first session. It would fix 1936 salaries at the 1935 fee earnings and prescribed minima and maxima between which commissioners courts could fix salaries in subsequent years.

Other Revenue Bills

Floor consideration of the matter could not be started, however, before tomorrow unless several rules were suspended.

Bills to increase the natural gas production tax and the levy on horse race wagers were approved by the revenue and taxation committee. The racing tax was increased five per cent to 30 per cent of the wagers retained by the track and the natural gas levy from two to three per cent of the value.

Bills to levy a general gross receipts tax, prohibit counties from levying a 25-cent poll tax and to tax playing cards, etc., were reported unfavorably.

The committee recommended a $25 annual occupation tax on dance halls.

the coast highway that divides the southern tip of the beach colony from the closest point of the rugged Malibu hills country.

Three lines of hose were laid across the highway ot the colony and the Malibu creek reservoir was running full. A four inch main was ready to provide full pressure.

Advance of the fire was slowed down when a "back fire" was started to halt the blaze. The method consists of starting a controlled blaze ahead of the big fire and guiding it back to meet it. The controlled area is burned over by the time the major fire reaches it.

Located in the northern section are the homes of John Boles, Jack Warner, Edmund Lowe, Louise Fazenda, Bryan Foy, the producer, and Charlotte Henry.

Other film celebrities who have Beach homes are Constance Bennett, Joan Bennett and her husband, Gene Markey, Harry Beaumont, the director, and Herbert Brennon, another director, now in England; Harry Rapp, Norman Foster and his bride, Sally Blane.

Highway patroimen closed the highway to traffic when the blaze rolled along the mountainous strip bordering the ocean yesterday.

The $10,000 mountain home of Charles Farrell, film star, was destroyed, as well as the $42,000 estate of Lionel Atwill, another actor.

Sale Family Escape.

Charles (Chic) Sale, the comedian, his wife and two sons marooned for a time in their Malibu Hill home, were led to safety through a sheet of flames that endangered their place.

The fire, one of a half dozen which broke out in Southern California yesterday, had burned over 15,000 acres.

Scores of persons were injured. The property loss mounted into the millions.

Two Ventura county fires which threatened Lake Sherwood and the Amrillo State Hospital, were believed under control early today. Hundreds were on the fire line.

In the San Diego area, firefighters, CCC workers and soldiers were seeking to stop fires near Escondido and Camp Kearney.

Northwest of Sunland, 1,500 acres of rough terrain were burned over before a fire in the Kagel and Lopez canyons were brought under control. Eght cabns were destroyed.

to put 3,500,000 unemployed on work relief and the League of Nations request for United States comment on the sanctions against Italy.

Back of these more urgent issues were questions of long range policy that will determine the course of the new deal from now until the 1936 elections, including the legislative program for the congress convening in January.

In shaping his course for the all-important pre-election months, the President will have suggestions, criticism and advice from thousands of ministers all over the country. Shortly before his departure, he broadcast letters to them asking for their "counsel" and "help."

Reports of improving business conditions but little change in unemployment and relief totals will also be available for the chief executive, as he maps out his future program.

When he turns to the political situation, the President will find that during his absence republican criticism of his spending program has grown in volume.

Returning with Chief Executive were his two relief chieftains, Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, and Secretary Ickes, Public Works administrator. They were getting back in time to direct the last stages of the drive to put $3,500,000 men to work under the $4,000,000,000 work relief program.

Facing Hopkins was the task of getting about 2,000,000 more at work within a week or failing of the administration goal to have 90 per cent of the 3,500,000 in jobs by Nov. 1.

GANG DEATHS

slaying of a Brooklyn policeman more than a year ago.

Dr. Earl Snavely, drector of the Newark City Hospital, said the condition of Schultz was so critical that another blood transfusion was necessary immediately.

A hospital bulletin said he was "very low."

Stern's picture was identified by three witnesses as that of the gunman who wounded a Schultz henchman in a Broadway barber shop last night in a second foray against the Schultz ring after the former beer runner himself, his chauffeur and two bodygurads were shot by gangsters who invaded a Newark tavern.

Two Bodyguards Die.

The two bodygurads, Otto Berman, 46, and Leo Frank, 40, died during the night.

The shootings were the worst outbreak of gang warfare in the New York district since prohibition days.

Deputy Chief Inspector Francis J. Kear also ordered a city-wide search for Charles (Lucky Charlie) Luciano, chain cabaret owner whom he alleged was the "most powerful gangster in Manhattan."

He said he wanted to determine whether Luciano's associates might have decided to wipe out Schultz gang in one sensational coup and seize control of every racket in the city.

Schultz, free under $50,000 bail on a charge of income tax evasion, was shot down with his chauffeur and two bodyguards in a hail of machine gun bullets in a Newark chop house.

Two assailants—one described by witnesses as a "big guy"—escaped in a black sedan.

Two Die of Wounds.

Otto Berman, 46, one of the bodyguards, died of his wounds shortly after 3 a. m.

Schultz was in a critical condition with three bullet wounds, as was Bernard Rosenkrantz, 36, the chauffeur. Leo Frank of Newark, who first said he was a bystander, died several hours after Berman. He was wounded while shooting it out with the invaders.

While police sirens blared in search of the assassins, another Schultz aide, Martin Krompier, was shot as he left the barber shop at Broadway and 47th street, in the heart of Manhattan's nght life district. After the theatre crowds fled in panic.

Some witnesses said they saw four men flee, but a negro porter in the barber shop told police he saw only one, later identified as Stern.

Shot In Back.

Krompier had just been shaved and was putting on his coat, the porter said, when a gun blazed. He was seriously wounded in the back.

Samuel Gold, a bookmaker who had accompanied him, was shot three times but was not reported in a serious condition. Police found no connection between him and the Schultz gang.

Police found a .38-calibre revolver on the stairway of an adjacent subway entrance.

Surgeons in a Newark hospital, meanwhile, were treating Schultz who for a time was unconscious.

"He's looking better," said Dr. Earl Snavely after wounds in the beer baron's abdomen and lungs were probed. "We could not find any perforations of his intestines or liver."

Schultz, who had been fighting removal to New York on the income tax charge, was sitting in the tavern with his three companions when the two assailants threw open the door and blazed away with machine guns.

The gunmen fired at least 20 shots, witnesses said, and then fled through a rear door. The few patrons ran for cover.

Police took seven men and three women patrons to headquarters for questioning. Some of them said they had been dancing on the second floor and were not aware of the shooting.

Rosenkrantz, questioned by officers, said merely:

"Give me an ice cream cone."

Schultz became a gangland figure during prohibition when he became active in beer and liquor syndicates. Often he and his men were hunted for underworld slayings.

When the campaign starts in earnest this week-end, goevrnment candidates will be in the field for 557 of the 615 seats in the house of commons. The government supporters will include 494 conservatives, 40 liberal nationalists, 20 national laborites and 3 nationalists.

Opposition socialist candidates number 524, but this total may be increased. The number of opposition liberals has not been announced.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin has indicated that national unity, backed by sufficient arms to keep world peace, would be the main plamk of the government platform.

Political circles anticipated that an election manifesto, scheduled to be published Saturday, would emphasize four major issues:

1. Rearmament in the face of an armed world.

2. Need of a national mandate to carry through a policy of economic sanctions, with all they might entail.

3. The desirability of having a national government with a specific new term to complete the tasks of aiding industrial recovery and solving the problem of unemployment.

4. The urgency of letting nothing be done to imperil Britain's credit.

Members of parliament, in this last day of debate, were cheered by the latest hints from Rome of some form of "bargain" involving Britain's naval forces in the Mediterranean and Italy's troops in Libya.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Winston Churchill told the house of commons today Britain should immediately provide for "secure and lasting command of the Mediterranean."

The former first lord of the admiralty at the outbreak of the world war and the man who, it was said will take that position if a new national government is elected, declared that was the practical moral to be drawn from the present international situation.

He asserted the British government should be prepared to "go the whole way with the whole lot" in defense of the League of Nations covenant.

Churchill declared the Italo-Ethiopian conflict is a "very small matter" compared to the rearmament of Germany.

He asserted "the whole of Germany is an armed camp." He said 800,000,000 pounds ($4,000,000,000) is "being spent in the course of the present year in direct and indirect military preparations by Germany."

PIERSON

Pierson testified, adding that nothing other members of the family said could alter the delusion.

Pierson said that as a small child, Howard was extremely shy and seemed sad. As he grew older, the appearance of sadness seemed to increase until many people commented on it.

"He was very unhappy in school," Pierson continued. "Boys seemed to think he was a sissy and picked on him. He also was unhappy in a school in France because he was a foreigner."

Discharged As Misfit.

A year or so before Justice and Mrs. Pierson were killed, Pierson said, the brothers worked on a pipeline in Louisiana, but, despite the fact William was "a sort of boss," Howard was discharged by the employers as a "misfit."

"I had many conversations with Howard about his trouble," Pierson testified. "He understood that I wanted to help him. He consulted Dr. D. B. Klien, University of Texas psychologist.

"There is no doubt in my own mind he is insane. He does not know right from wrong."

On cross examination, District Attorney James P. Hart asked Pierson about a letter he wrote his mother June 13, 1934.

"I'm glad Howard has a job," the letter read. "If he shows the same stuff he showed in Louisiana, I believe he will get along fine."

Not Altogether Sincere.

Pierson explained he wrote to encourage his mother, "who was worried about Howard." He said he also knew the letter would be handed Howard to read and he wshed to "give the boy a boost." He admitted he was not altogether sincere in the statement.

Hart began quizzing Pierson about the property which Justice Pierson left. District Judge C. A. Wheeler overruled a defense objection to the line of questioning after the jury was sent from the room and Hart explained he wanted to show that Howard had a rational, although a criminal, motive for the killings.

Justice Pierson left $17,000 in insurance and about $40,000 in personal and real property to Mrs Pierson, the elder son testified. An objection as to whether William Pierson, as administrator of the estate, collected the insurance money was sustained.

Pierson said he did not know whether Howard knew of his father's insurance.

Buie Says Mentally Unsound.

Dr. A. L. Aulick, Baptist minister at Shawnee, Okla., and formerly pastor of the Austin church which the Piersons attended, described Howard as a queer boy, apparently backward.

Dr. N. D. Buie, physician at Marlin, testified he examined young Pierson and concluded he was suffering from insane delusions and now is mentally unsound.

"He thought Justice and Mrs. Pierson were not his parents, and apparently was very sincere in the delusion he was an adopted son," Dr. Buie testified. "He believed he was a grand person who would be dominant over the human race. Also he had a delusion he was persecuted by children in that French school."

"Well, if he actually was persecuted in France, it wouldn't be a delusion, would it?" Hart asked on cross examination.

"I think he had a delusion all right," Buie said.

AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Testimony that Howard Pierson, slayer of his parents, suffered from a paranoid type of demenia praecox formed the basis today of defense claims he should not be tried on murder charges.

Three physicians who qualified as mental experts, Drs. Joe Wooten, C. H. Standifer and W. R. Houston, testified at young Pierson's sanity hearing that he was living in a world of delusions and did not know right from wrong as judged by normal standards. Standifer is superintendent of the Austin state hospital.

They agreed their examinations indicated Pierson had delusions he was being persecuted, was destined to become a great scientist and was not the son of Justice William Pierson of the State Supreme Court and Mrs Pierson, whom he confessed killing last April.

"He believed his father and mother were interfering with the progress of his scientific investigations and that his mission in the scientific world was similar to that of Jesus Christ in the spiritual," Dr. Wooten said. "He is motivated entirely by insane beliefs and is living in an unreal world."

Warned Father.

Wooten testified that in March, 1934, he treated Pierson after an "attempted suicide" and that that time warned Justice Pierson his son had an incipient case of dementia praecox and ought to be watched. He said Pierson had been poisoned by carbon monoxide gas in a closed garage.

District Attorney James P. Hart sought to show that Pierson knew right from wrong and the consequences of illegal acts because he planned the crime, attempted to conceal it and was able to give facts about it clearly.

Mrs. Alice Thomas of Salina, Kas., an elder sister, testified her brother, then about 14 years old, wept one day when she goodnaturedly teased him about being "a little Mexican." Customs officers at Laredo, noting his dark complexion, once had asked Pierson if he was Mexican.

"'Oh, I know I'm not one of you,'" Mrs. Thomas said he cried. "'But you don't have to keep reminding me of it'."

Mrs. Thomas said neither [illegible] nor her mother ever were able to convince the youth he was [illegible] adopted son.

necessary to transfer a man from another county to the job, stating that he was not on the relief rolls, and adding that there was no one in Navarro county capable of handling the project, according to Mr. Morgan.

The re-employment director said that Mr. Jones insisted that a technical man was needed for the job in order to check the blueprints of the project for errors, although the plans have been checked both in the district and state offices of the Works Progress Administration by members of their engineering staffs.

Morgan Opposes Transfer

Mr. Morgan reported that he would oppose the transfer of a man from another county to be supervisor of the project in every manner possible, and if a man were sent in from outside the county it would be done by those whose authority outranked his. He stated that men with sufficient technical knowledge and experience were available from his files for the project, and that in the event that a person was desired who was not a relief client that he was permitted to go outside his rolls and secure such men as were needed, and that he was sure there were a number of men in Navarro county who were fully qualified to handle the lake improvement project.

Navarro county residents who conferred with the labor supervisor at the Palestine office recently concerning the qualifications needed for the lake post, said they were informed that an engineer was not essential to the job and that ability to read blueprints and check materials were the outstanding requirements, and that the incumbent was supposed to act as a contact man between the city forces and the WPA organization.

Kimes Is City Superintendent

Clyde Kimes of Kerens, now engaged as office engineer aiding in the completion of the plan details for various Navarro county projects, was announced Thursday as the city superintendent of the work by Mayor J. S. Murchison.

City Engineer W. V. Mowlam reported Thursday morning that everything was in readiness for actual work from the city's standpoint, and that the project had been so planned that about six weeks' work

ALLRED SUBMITTED MATTER OF SALARY COUNTY OFFICIALS

SENATE PASSES OLD-AGE PENSION BILL AND HOUSE CLARIFIES MEASURE

AUSTIN, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Governor Allred today submitted to the legislature enactment of a salary bill for payment of county and district officers, as required by a constitutional amendment.

In submitting the question of salaries, which failed during the first session, Governor Allred said:

"In view of the progress made in connection with old age pension legislation, I am submitting to you the matter of substituting salaries for fees as provided in the constitutional amendment adopted on Aug. 24.

"I am sure I need not emphasize the importance of action on this subject during this session."

Under the amendment compensation of district and certain county officers on a fee basis would be prohibited after Jan. 1.

The governor declined to indicate when he would submit liquor regulation, another subject which failed at the first session.

The senate had passed an old age pension bill and the house had decided, by action on amendments, several issues in the matter.

A house group renewed its drive to attach an omnibus tax bill as a rider to the pension bill after adopting amendments to pay pensions from a separate fund and to prorate balances in the fund among pensioners in event the amount was insufficient to pay all allowances. An amendment to prohibit issuance of deficiency pension warrants was defeated.

Would Levy Retail Sales Tax.

The omnibus tax bill would levy a tax of one and one-half per cent on retail sales, excepting clothing, food and medicines, and increase occupation and natural resources taxes 12 1-2 per cent.

It provoked a bitter fight from the anti-sales tax bloc, who contended the senate would substitute a general sales tax hitting everything.

The governor signed a bill passed at the first session increasing the penalties for driving a car while intoxicated. It added a minimum jail sentence of 30 days and a minimum fine of $50 to the statute which authorized imprisonment for two years, a 90-day jail sentence or a fine of $500, for the offense.

Attorney General William McCraw advised the governor the bill would not affect any pending prosecutions or convictions under the prior act.

Governor Allred also submitted to the legislature bills to reduce from three weeks to 10 days the time required for calling school elections, a restriction he said affected more than 150 public works administration applications, and to authorize the Yoakum school district to qualify for federal funds.

With its calendar cleared by passage of the pension bill, the senate received a bill by Senator Tom DeBerry of Bogata to fix salaries and adjourned until tomorrow.

The DeBerry bill, similar to one developed by a committee in the preceding session, would authorize 1936 salaries of within 10 per cent of current fee earnings and prescribe salaries for subsequent years on a population basis. It would give officers in some small counties increases but reduce compensation in some of the larger counties.

ONE DEAD, SEVERAL INJURED IN THREE AUTOMOBILE WRECKS

HOUSTON MAN FATALLY INJURED AND ANOTHER HAS LEG AMPUTATED

One man was killed and several others were injured in auto accidents on the slippery highways of Navarro county and the streets of Corsicana Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Henry John Fox, Jr., aged 22 years, filling station owner of Houston, 7346 Avenue F, Houston, died in the P. and S. hospital at 1:15 o'clock Wednesday morning. The car in which he and L. L. Logan, Houston, a former University of Texas football player were en route to Dallas, figured in an accident involving a car driven by H. R. Strickland, 37, also of Houston, three miles south of Corsicana on Highway 75 about 9:30 o'clock Tuesday night. Logan is in the P. and S. hospital suffering with a fractured leg between the knee and thigh. Strickland was taken to the Navarro Clinic. His condition is not regarded as serious but he is suffering severe cuts and abrasions on the forehead, elbow and knees. Both cars were reported demolished. Fox's death is the sixth for the year in Navarro county from auto injuries.

The body of Fox will be forwarded to Houston tonight by the Corley Funeral Home where the funeral rites and interment will be held sometime Friday. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fox of Houston, a brother, Russell Fox, U. S. Navy, and a sister, Miss Laura Fox of Houston.

J. W. (Red) Oldham, aged 23 years, of Mart, truck-driver for J. B. Siler of Temple, is in the P. and S. hospital in a serious condition. His left leg was mangled to such an extent when his gasoline truck turned over several miles east of Kerens on Highway 31 about midnight that amputation was necessary. The leg was amputated just below the knee. The truck was badly damaged, but did not catch afire. The injured man was rushed to the hospital in the Stockton ambulance. Details of the accident were not available here.

Sam D. Brooks, owner of The Brooks Shop, received a head cut early Wednesday morning when his car figured in a collision with another machine in the business district. Mr. Brooks was taken to the Navarro Clinic where stitches were taken in the wound, and then taken home. He was able to be up later in the morning.

A car reported driven by John Harris figured in a collision with a truck on North Beaton street late Tuesday afternoon. The truck officers said, was driven by a negro. No one was injured.

Hog Prices Take Tumble on Market In Chicago Today

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Hog prices tumbled below the ten dollar per hundredweight level today for the first time since July 7 as receipts increased.

A decline of 25 to 35 cents per hundredweight in hogs today carried the top down to $9.85 and extended the seasonal October break, the sharpest downturn in this market in a year, to almost $2.50.

Kansas Youth Is Crowned As Star Farmer Americа

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Paul Leck, who has done almost as well with little pigs as Walt Disney, is the years' acknowledged number one young farmer of America.

Leck, 18 years old and with no intention of becoming a school book farmer, was crowned the "Star Farmer" at the American Royal Stock Show here yesterday by three judges, P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.; Dr. W. I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Association, and Dr. John H. Finley, associatedq editor of the New York Times.

The Washington, Kas., youth won the award on the basis of his five-year success with an original investment in 16 pigs.

His records showed a current inventory of $2,000 to which the Weekly Kansas City Star added another $500 as its Star farmer award.

Young Leck, tumultuously received at the Royal Horse Show, told the audience he didn't plan to go to agricultural college.

"I won't have to worry about losing my job as long as I stay on the farm," he grinned. "I believe a fellow can make a more practical farmer on the farm than the men who spend four years learning to experiment and work with the best equipment."

MANY HORSES AND MULES BURN DEATH FORT WORTH FIRE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 23.—(AP)—More than 150 horses and mules including Buck Stuart's prized rodeo cow pony, Orphan Annie, were destroyed in a two-alarm fire which swept through the Burnett-Yount horse and mule barns in the stock yards section here early today.

Also killed was Mack, a five-year-old bulldog belonging to Louis Tindall, the rodeo star. Mack had been trained to ride and round up horses and was burned to death when he dived into a section of the barn where Tindall usually keeps his jumping horses.

Jack Tindall, 28, brother of the rodeo performer, was badly burned on the hands. He and Radio Patrolman C. E. Neal ran into the barn and whipped out about 40 animals.

J. B. and Shirrell Martin, who live nearby, rescued about 60 horses and mules from the north side of the barns.

A number of animals, bewildered by smoke and flames, ran back into the blazing structures after they had been driven to safety.

Tindall had just driven in from an inspection of his West Texas ranch properties, he said, and was in a filling station across the street from the barn when the fire broke out.

Mack was in the tonneau of Tindall's touring car.

As the flames spread the dog leaped from the car and ran into the burning building. Tindall explained that his brother frequently had taken the dog to the barns. The animal seemed to know where the Tindall horses usually were kept, because he went to that section of the barn.

Despite the efforts of bystanders to keep him from the fire, Tindall ran into the barn after the dog, he never saw Mack again.

Orphan Annie was one of the horses which, once driven to safety, turned and ran back into the barn. She was driven out a second time but blinded and badly burned, she staggered a block away where she collapsed and was shot by Policeman Neal.

SNOW AND SLEET IN PANHANDLE; ABRUPT TEMPERATURE DROP

SUMMER-LIKE WEATHER IS SWEPT AWAY IN NORTH TEXAS BY NORTHER

(By The Associated Press.)

Flurries of sleet and snow whitened the Panhandle plains today as a fast-moving "norther" brought an abrupt end to summer-like weather in Texas.

Near-freezing temperatures chilled the northwest, rains drenched much of the state and thermometers fell sharply as the southward-moving storm rapidly engulfed the southwest. At many points temperatures fell from 20 to 40 degrees overnight.

The mercury registered 34 degrees at Pampa and sleet fell for a short time. Light snow and sleet—the first of the season — hit Borger shortly after daybreak, bringing with it a low temperature of 38.

At Sherman the temperature tumbled from 81 to 45, accompanied by drizzling rain and a cold north wind.

The "norther" caused a sudden drop of 26 degrees at Wichita Falls, the minimum reaching 40. Abilene's temperature also dropped to 40. It was raining there.

Texline had a low of 32, with the first freeze of the season.

The temperature sagged 31 degrees, from 67 to 36, at Lubbock, registering the lowest level of the season. Some sleet and rain was falling there. Plainview shivered with a minimum of 34.

Rain fell steadily at Dallas, where the temperature was down in the low fifties. Corsicana had 1.13 inches of rain. The temperature there fell 39 degrees overnight to a low of 48.

A 24-mile wind from the northeast lowered the temperature to 56 at San Antonio and a trace of rain dampened that section.

Corpus Christi was still clear and sunny but the norther was expected to reach there shortly. At Austin the temperature was down to 53 and light rain fell.

Longview had 3.48 inches of rain.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Approaching winter dispatched a pre-season expedition into the Southwest today.

Snow and sleet flurries whitened the Texas Panhandle as a "norther" put the skids to balmy weather. Kansas had its first hard freeze of the season. Frost nipped all of Oklahoma.

The mercury slipped to 24 at Goodland, Kas., the coldest of the season for the state.

LIMESTONE COUNTY GRAND JURY WOULD WORK PRISONERS

MEXIA, Oct. 24.—(Spl.)—Work for Limestone county's prisoners is suggested by the grand jury of the 77th District in a report signed by J. S. Maffett, foreman and submitted ot Judge H. F. Kirby.

"The grand jurors moved and recommended that since there are many misdemeanor cases in the county and many of the defendants lay their fines out in jail, and thereby cause considerable expense by feeding the prisoners, and as a means of checking other crime waves, that the commissioners court of Limestone County, Texas, take some definite action in securing and providing work for the prisoners of the county."

Whether a rock pile, a chain gang for roads, or industrial work is desired was not specified in the report, which will be considered by the commissioner's court.

The jury also reported it had examined 104 witnesses and reported 27 felony indictments and two indictments, of the grade of misdemeanors.
